

GEORGIA MAN LURED TO DEN OF SWINDLERS.

Frederick Hanson
Fought with Three Men and Thus Saved
His Money.

HE IS PROMINENT AT HOME

Accosted by a Stranger Who Seemed to Know Many Citizens of Fitzgerald, the Town Where He Lives.

After having been lured into a den of sharpers Frederick Hanson only prevented them from robbing him of several thousand dollars by making a hard fight against three men.

Hanson is a prosperous business man of Fitzgerald, Ga. He is going to Europe and has been stopping for a few days at No. 39 West Twenty-second street. This morning he went to the Cunard Steamship Company office, at Broadway and Thirtieth street, to purchase a ticket for the transatlantic voyage.

Just before he entered the place Hanson was accosted, he says, by a good-looking man, who tapped him on the shoulder and exclaimed: "Hello, Hanson. How are you?"

Hanson stopped suddenly, looked at the man and said: "I don't know you.
Who are you?"

"Why, I know you," replied the stranger. "You're Fred Hanson, from Fitzgerald, Ga. My name is Davis. I know nearly everybody in your town."

Davis told the names of several of the prominent residents of the Southern city, and after several minutes' conversation, Hanson believed he was talking to a man who was well known in Fitzgerald.

According to Hanson's story, Davis invited him over to No. 237 East Twenty-seventh street, where he was alone with a man who knew everybody in Fitzgerald. Hanson went with his new friend and was escorted to a room on the second floor. In a few minutes a man entered the room. He was followed by another. They all seemed possessed of a certain confidence and seemed to be at home. Then one of the men suggested a game of cards, saying he had won several thousand dollars which he did not know what to do with.

Hanson says he became suspicious and started to leave the room. Davis and his two companions objected and tried.
Hanson charges, to take his cash right there. The Southern, however, after a lively tussle got to the street. Davis ran toward Third avenue, while his companions went in the opposite direction.

Davis started to run down Third avenue. At Twenty-ninth street Patrick man George Banks was standing. He saw Davis running and tried to stop the man. Davis tried to get away, but Banks pulled his revolver and threatened to shoot. Davis then turned and fled.

At the East Thirtieth street station the prisoner described himself as William H. Davis, twenty-eight years old, No. 38 West Twenty-seventh street.
Hanson had reached the station house by this time and said he would go to the Yorkville Court and press a charge against Davis. He told the police of his experience and efforts are being made to find Davis's companions, one of whom he said was a man named Davis. According to the police, the woman said that Davis intended to take her to the city and was contacting her for all the patients discharged from the hospital.

Mr. Chichester does not know who Davis's companions are.

WASHINGTON PARK, July 18.—After an absence from Washington Park of almost three weeks while on their second trip to the West, Ned Hanlon's aggregation of ball-tossers returned home this afternoon and tackled the Boston team in the first game of the present series.

The showing made by the Brooklynites during their Western trip was not by any means a glorious one. They lost eight games, won five, and managed to tie one. Of the eight games lost, Hanlon's men suffered the humiliation of being shut out without a run in five of them, while President Charles Ebbets admitted previous to the game was the record for shut-outs during a trip.

In spite of this poor showing the Brooklyn returned in the same position in the race as when they left here on July 2, which is second place. This position was due to the fact that the Boston team, through the generosity of the Pittsburg Club, who beat the Boston four straight games, and also their own good luck in taking two of the games which they played the Chicago.

The Trolley Dodgers are scheduled to play twenty-two straight games at home, and Fossy Hanlon is confident his team will surely win over two-thirds of them.

In order to make sure that his men will not slide into a losing streak, Hanlon had them all out on the field both this morning and afternoon practicing.
Hanlon was anxious to beat the Bostonians in to-day's game, for a defeat for his team meant that they would once again adorn third place in the race.

Hanlon was undecided at first who he would put in to fight against the visitors, but at the last moment he called on Donovan to unload his benders at the Hobbits. Manager Buckenberger, on the other hand, had his twirler already named, his selection being big Lanky Willis, who has always proven a difficult proposition for the Superbas.

As this was the first game which the rooters in this vicinity have had a chance to witness since July 2, they turned out in large numbers to witness the tussle.

First Inning.
Cooley opened the game by lacing one of Donovan's inshoots to left for a bag.
Tenny then pitched a long fly to de-right, which Keeler captured after a sprint. Demott pushed a slow bouncer to Dahlen, who threw him out at first. allowing Cooley to reach second. Carney also contributed a grass cutter which Dahlen and McCreery took care of. No runs.

Sheppard waited patiently until Willis had pitched in four wide balls and then aimed to first. Keeler then tried to bunt, but was only able to raise a pop-fly which Willis easily gathered in near the plate. Dolan was the first Brooklyn player to fan the air and on the third strike Sheppard stole second, and on Dahlen's wild throw to demott, Shekard kept right on to third. Dahlen was also unable to locate Willis's collection of high inshoots, and was the second victim on strikes. No runs.

Second Inning.
Courtney was too anxious to get a base on balls and was finally called out in strikes. Capt. Long faced the ball to center for a bag, and on the next pitched he made a pretty steal of second by slide. Lush replaced Greninger and lifted a high fly back of short, which Dahlen smothered. Moran also sent up a skyscraper to short right, which Wheeler made a neat catch of. No runs.
Ahorn kicked a convulsive one to center and was the only one to send curves and was the third Brooklynite in succession to scatter the atmosphere.
McCreery was more fortunate, however.
He landed on an inshoot and soaked it to center for a bag. Mac then made a neat steal of second, being aided by Loran's low throw. Long, Irwin was the second victim on his scarer to short right, which dropped into Carney's mitt.
Wheeler was an easy victim on a strike, and the Trolley Dodgers took the field.
No runs.

Third Inning.
Willis gave an exhibition of club swinging at Donovan's inshoots.
Cooley's long low line fly to deep right center was easily captured by Keeler after a short run. Tenny drew a base on balls and moved up to second on a wild pitch by Donovan. Demott was the first Brooklynite to fan a victim on strikes. No runs.

Donovan bunted in front of the plate but Willis, by a quick pick up of the ball and a lightning throw to Tenny, just nipped the hand some twirler at the bag. Sheppard was only able to send up a high foul fly which Moran had no trouble whatever in getting under.
Keeler was in no hurry to swing at wide balls, and as a result received a free pass to first. Dolan was also treated to a similar gift, allowing Keeler to move up to second. Dahlen batted out a slow bouncer to the infield, which Loran smothered and by a quick throw to Tenny managed to retire "Wild Bill" at first. No runs.

Fourth Inning.
Carney trotted to first after Donovan had failed to locate the twirler. Courtney then tried to sacrifice but his attempt was only a pop fly, which McCreery caught and by a quick run to first managed to double up Courtney, who had previously started for second. Long sent his meek to the field by swinging at a low line fly straight into Keeler's hands. No runs.

Donovan's inshoot right was nipped by Demott. McCreery was quickly retired on his fast bouncer by Loran's scorching throw. Tenny's grounder was too hot for Lush to handle and Charley easily reached first. Wheeler smashed a fast bouncer to Loran, who lost no time in fielding Hanlon's utility player out at first. No runs.

Fifth Inning.
Lush napped a high foul fly, which Irwin made a pretty catch of after a hard run near the Brooklyn bench.
Tenny pitched the ball along the first-base line for a base, but on the second moment later on Willis's inshoot, the ball to Dahlen at second. Dolan then electrified the rooters by making a sensational throw to first, which Lush fly to deep center, for which he was loudly applauded. No runs.

Wheeler smashed a fast bouncer out at first by Lush. Sheppard was disposed of on his jumper by Demott and Dahlen pitched in four wide balls and then gathered in by Moran. No runs.

ROBBED, HE SAID; WANTED WARRANT

Refused by Magistrate, Who Had Held Him in Jail—Believed He Used Alias When Arraigned.

Magistrate Voorhes in the Coney Island Court to-day refused to permit a man who said that he and his wife had been robbed of about $400 in money and diamonds to swear out a complaint against the robbers, as it was held, he hid his identity under an alias.

The would-be complainant, who said he was John Murphy, thirty-five years old, of Emmons avenue and Twenty-third street, Sheepshead Bay, with his wife, was arraigned in court, he on a charge of assault and the woman for intoxication.

The evidence against them was to the effect that they had dined too well at the Oriental Hotel, Manhattan Beach, last night, and had to be carried from the hotel across the long bridge that spans Sheepshead Bay and were finally placed in a carriage.

While being driven to their residence Murphy declared that he and his wife had been robbed, and a row followed.
The Murphys were driven to the station-house. There, it was charged, Murphy struck the cabman and with his wife was locked up.

In court to-day the prisoner said that he had been robbed of a gem worth $50, and his wife of a diamond hair pin valued at $250 and her pocketbook, containing $50.
He would not deny the charge of assault and was held in $300 bail, while his wife was discharged.
Martin Raucher, a Coney Island hotelkeeper, gave a bond for him.
Murphy wanted to swear out a warrant for the arrest of a waiter whom he charged with the robbery. Magistrate Voorhes, however, told him that he had been informed his name was no Murphy and he would not issue the warrant under an alias.
Murphy is said to be a well-known resident of New Haven, who is stopping for the summer at Sheepshead Bay.

PLUNDER FOUND IN ROOMS OF PRISONER.

Detective-Sergeants Foggary and Reap, of the Central Office, arrested Edward Brown, twenty-five years old, a janitor, of No. 12 East Forty-second street, and Philip H. Simms, his assistant, to-day. They occupied the top floor of the building.
On July 7 or 8 Dr. Bullard, of No. 302 Madison avenue, told Capt. Titus a robbery had been committed in his house. When the detectives arrested Brown and Simms they found women's silk dresses, a music box and jewelry valued all told at $2,000.
They were held on suspicion.

HUSTLED PUPILS' ANNOY TO COURT.

While the Vacation School pupils of Grammar School No. 2, in Madison street, were engaged in physical exercise drill this afternoon under the direction of Principal George P. Markham, Herman J. Saperstone, entered the playground and began to annoy them. Principal Markham told him to leave, but he challenged the teacher to fight. As Mr. Markham was right guard on the football team of the College of the City of New York, the situation appealed to him as being humorous, but for the sake of discipline he took Saperstone by the neck and landed him before Magistrate Mayo, in the Essex Market Court. The Magistrate warned him to keep away from the playground.

PENNSYLVANIA ROAD BUYS LAND.

Extensive purchases of land have recently been made in Long Island City, including what are known as the Van Alst and Rapelyea farm tracts, not far from the mouth of the proposed Pennsylvania tunnel, and between Newtown Creek and the Queens County House. This gives the Long Island Railroad Company about all of the land it needs in Long Island City for the Pennsylvania-Long Island tunnel, and ownership of a continuous tract from the East River to a line as far east as the Queens County Court House, a distance of a mile from the river.

MANHATTAN POLICE FOR BROOKLYN.

About forty policemen, now doing duty in Manhattan, are soon to be transferred to Brooklyn. Who these men are, or when they will begin patrol duty, has not been revealed. They live in Brooklyn.

This is one of the benefits that Brooklyn gets as the result of the re-manning of the forty-eight headquarters detectives to patrol duty. There is still another. The return to patrol duty and the reduction in salaries will mean a saving of $28,000 per year to the city.

FEDERAL JUDGESHIP FOR DAVIES.

President Roosevelt, it was stated to-day, is holding open the appointment of a United States district judge for the Northern District of New York in hope that Attorney-General John C. Davies will accept his appointment. The position to be filled is the one left vacant by the promotion of Judge Alfred C. Cox to the United States Circuit Court.

Hanson was a prohibitive favorite.
He won to the front at flagfall and was never caught, winning easily by a length and a half from Lusk, who was three lengths in front of Referred.
Macana and Helfe of Lexington were close up for half a mile, when both blew up.

Room Ransacked for Evidence by Detectives Brady and McClusky—Tutbill Goes to Coroner's Office After Declaring He Has Nothing to Conceal.

Detectives Brady and McClusky, working on the Latimer murder case, this afternoon went to the home of William H. Tutbill. He was not there, but they made a careful search of his room and the entire house. They refused to say what evidence they had gathered.

Tutbill had an appointment with the detectives, but failed, they say, to keep it. There was no response to their ring. Hannah Larsen, the Swedish servant, who will substantiate Tutbill's alibi on Monday, finally came home from a marketing trip.

"Mr. Will went out some time ago," she said, "and did not say when he would return."
